

Why is it that organizations, like the NBA appear to always be against new services? Where do they get off fighting and spending time, money and energy trying to dictate to another venture what they can or cannot air? Has XM radio chosen not to become a member of the NBA? Aren't the airways free?

As a user of the XM radio network, i find that XM offers to me much more than the NBA stations. Especially when i travel.

I want the FCC reject the NBA's petition, #04-160.
